E. H. POLLARD, Esq.

The Scheme of a Local Bank for this Colony with Branches at the most important places in China, has been in contemplation for a very long period.

The local and foreign trade in Hongkong and at the open ports in China and Japan has increased so rapidly within the last few years that additional Banking facilities are felt to be required.

The Banks now in China being only branches of Corporations whose head quarters are in England or India, and which were formed chiefly with the view of carrying on exchange operations between those countries and China, are scarcely in a position to deal satisfactorily with the local trade which has become so much more extensive and varied than in former years.

This deficiency the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company will supply, and will in fact assume the same position with relation to this Colony as the Presidency Banks in India, or the Banks of Australia in their respective localities.

The Establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, providing an adequate supply of proper currency, will render a local Banking medium essential to carry out its operations, and the almost certain disappearance of the existing Compradorie system (so far as money is concerned) will also ensure Banks becoming in course of time the exclusive medium for the transaction of the monetary operations connected with trade.

For the anticipated success of this enterprise there are therefore ample grounds; and the great prosperity which has attended the working of other local associations in China clearly shows that the largest profits are obtained by those Public Companies which possess an interested local body of Proprietors or Shareholders whose support naturally forms a chief element of remunerative success.

The Bank will commence operations simultaneously in Hongkong and Shanghai and as the importance of its business at the latter place must be very great, it is intended to establish a local Board of Directors there for more effectually meeting the work. As circumstances render it advisable the Bank will establish Branches at other places.

In the distribution of Shares Hongkong and Shanghai will equally participate. Shares will also be reserved for the other ports in China and Japan and for persons residing elsewhere, who are directly interested in the China Trade.

Applications for Shares must be addressed until further notice, to the Provisional Committee, care of CANTON VOLUNTEERS.

The Commandant begs to thank Capt. MOUL, Officers and Members of the Corps, for the creditable manner in every way, in which they turned out yesterday afternoon for his inspection on Shameen. Considering the short time the Corps has been formed and its only having within the last few days received its Rifles, great praise is due to the Volunteer Drill Instructor. The Commandant hopes the Members will continue their attendance when ordered, at the muster of their Corps, and thereby pass in all their Drill before the Hot Season sets in. To allow of Rifle Practice commencing as soon as possible—Targets and one Hundred, Rounds of Ball ammunition per man will be furnished as the Commandant proceeds immediately Home on the 15th Inst., he takes this last opportunity of again thanking the Members of the Corps for the way in which they have come forward, and Capt. MOUL, in particular for the successful manner in which he has reared so delicate a plant as a Volunteer Corps especially where the climate, as in China, is so great an enemy.

THE COMMERCIAL BANK OF INDIA.

THIS Company has been formed for the purpose of purchasing a site in the Colony of Hongkong for Docks and constructing Docks and erecting suitable Premises thereon for carrying on the Business of Building or Docking and Repairing Steamers and Sailing Vessels, and for the purchase of the Docks now owned and carried on at Whampoa by Messrs. T. HUNT & Co. with the Appurtenances Plant and Good-will of the Docking Business of that Firm.

It is proposed to register the Company as one of Limited Liability either under the Imperial Act or under any Ordinance which the local Legislature may pass enabling local Companies to do so, the property of the Company in the meantime being vested in the Trustees, and the Deed of Settlement of the Company, now in course of preparation, is being framed in accordance with this intention.

The very considerable increase in the number of Vessels employed in what may be termed local trade, or in voyages that either originate or terminate, at Hongkong, in addition to the great quantity of tonnage visiting the Port from all quarters of the World, afford ample scope for the remunerative operations of Dock Companies, in addition to those which are already in existence.

Application has been made to Her Majesty's Government with reference to obtaining a site for the proposed Docks in the Colony, and the project has been favourably entertained, steps being in progress to facilitate this object, the necessary preliminary investigations as to the suitable character of the proposed site having been conducted and satisfactorily reported upon by Mr. S. B. RAWLING.

Liberal support has been promised to the undertaking which it is contemplated must necessarily prove a very remunerative one.

Further applications for Shares can till further notice be addressed to the Undersigned from whom forms of application and all particulars can be obtained.

WE are desired by Mr. Lewis to state that subject to the completion of the proper arrangements, his Company will give a performance at Canton on Saturday evening next. The programme will be "Faint Heart never won a Fair Lady," a Dance, and "The Water Witches."

IT is essential, we imagine, that all Governments in their dealings with other nations, should act upon fixed principles, and furthermore that such fixed principles should be based on international law. It will never do for a strong power to commit aggression on a weak one, on the principle of right making might, because whatever act a strong power may justify, can be committed on itself. For instance a Federal ship of war lately captured a Confederate cruizer in the harbor of Bahia. Should the Federal government justify the act, the Cabinet of Washington will be bound by the principles it bases the justification upon—and should a British or a French ship of war, at some future time, applying the same principles, cut a Russian man of war out of an American port, why little more need be said on the subject, although we suppose there would naturally be tremendous excitement in the States.

But let us put a case that comes nearer home, and bears more directly on the argument we are about to urge. Suppose a Federal picket were to make a raid into Canada for the purpose of arresting a Confederate agent; who we will further suppose, was captured and carried off! The case is a very simple one indeed, and therefore the question which arises out of it requires not the least amplification. The British government would doubtless require satisfaction, and the probability is, were it refused that a calamitous war would be the result.

Here however we arrive at the point which we desire to illustrate. Suppose the Federal government were to turn round on the British Minister, and urge as a precedent, and also as justification, the fact of the British authorities having resorted to the same practise in relation to the territories of a weak power? How would the matter stand then?

It would hardly do for the British Minister to urge that such acts only concern the power on whose territory the aggression may have been committed—and therefore in no way concern the United States Government. Such an argument is untenable, because it would admit the principle of might making right.

We remember some years ago, on the occasion of Mr. Markwick's murder, Mr. May, the present First Magistrate (being then Superintendent of Police), chartered a steamer and proceeded to the murderer's native place, where he demanded and obtained the culprit's surrender.

The whole affair redounded to the credit both of Mr. May's head and his heart, but on the facts becoming known to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, the proceeding was strongly disapproved of, and express orders were given that Chinese territory should on no account be thereafter invaded, but should be held as inviolable as international law requires.

With reference to the repeated violations of neutrality, and to the habitual departures of the British authorities in China from the provisions of the foreign enlistment act;—we shall say nothing; firstly because we are not capable of coming to any reliable conclusion regarding those matters; and secondly because all the treaty powers sanctioned and participated in the incongruous course pursued.

But a case has occurred lately which neither neutrality nor the foreign enlistment act can at all bear upon, and which presents such a palpable instance of the violation of international law, that we think some notice should be taken of it. We submit that a precedent may be derived from it which the British government will never allow to be applied to themselves, and therefore it is about time either that such practises should be repudiated and discontinued, or that some degree of system and legality should be evoked to sanction and to justify them.

The case was as follows.—A Chinese barber, who is a man of industry and repute, and who practised his vocation in this colony, was kidnapped under the following circumstances. He received a false intimation that his services were required on board a certain British vessel of war at a certain time. On the way thither he was taken out of the sampan which he had hired and was made off with. The man-stealer communicated indirectly with their captive's friends, and offered to ransom him for one thousand dollars.

Mr. Cecil Smith, the acting Registrar General, in a highly praiseworthy manner, took the matter in hand and obtained reliable information. It seems that the poor barber was confined in a village about eight miles beyond the head of Deep Bay; and that the negociations for the ransom were carried on through the medium of a doctor, who resided in a village situated between the place of confinement and Deep Bay. Mr. Smith actually conceived the project of arresting this doctor and at the same time of liberating the barber. He accordingly applied to the Senior Officer, and obtained the use of H. M. gunboat Woodcock. Mr. Boxer of the Hesper (master commanding) was induced to take charge, and accompanied by the acting Registrar General, proceeded up Deep Bay, without loss of time, as far as the depth of water would allow him to go. He then manned his boats, and after penetrating the country by means of a small river or creek which empties itself into the Bay, he landed and proceeded to the village where the doctor dwelt. The house of this man was surrounded, and his person being secured, a portion of the force (which consisted in all of some five and twenty men) was left in charge of him, whilst the others, led by their commander, and accompanied by the acting Registrar General, proceeded to the village, where the barber was confined. On reaching this village, it was found deserted. The lanes and alleys were traversed, the captive's name being called out as the search was being prosecuted. After a little perseverance the man replied, when of course his whereabout was discovered and he was released.

He had been most cruelly treated. His wrists and ankles were lashed and he had been carried from place to place by means of a bamboo passed under the lashings—in the same cruel manner that pigs used to be carried about the streets here, until the authorities interposed with some proper notions of humanity.

The expedition then returned—picked up the party they had left in charge of the doctor, took that individual captive, and brought him with them to Hongkong together with the barber. The doctor, we believe was charged with kidnapping and stands committed to take his trial at the next Criminal Sesions.

Personally, we have not one word of objection to urge. On the contrary, we admire the zeal, the courage, the tact and the good management of Messrs Boxer and Smith, and so must every body who reads this recital. But we fear that the act may form one of many, in reference to violations of the territory of the Emperor of China, which may be quoted as a precedent to the great prejudice of British diplomacy. And if we be right, we fear that Messrs Boxer and Smith may receive a reprimand which may be extremely annoying to them.

The Chinese authorities appear to have abandoned the Empire to its fate; no complaint from them is probable, and even were it made it could easily be disposed of. If it be that this apathy on the part of the Mandarins, excludes China from the application of international law, well and good—but we doubt that doctrine, and esteem it an especially dangerous one.

WE find the following startling item of intelligence in the Weekly Alta California of 5th November. This will give our readers some idea of the reliance they should place on the accounts they may read of the progress of the American telegraphic lines. We make no doubt if the whole thing is not a bubble, it will very soon become one in so far as China is concerned. Neither the British government, nor the British community will ever submit to the wires on this Coast being in the hands of an American Company. A more suicidal concession could not be entertained. The history of United States diplomacy in China forbids it—their policy has but one aim and end, namely antagonism to British interests. Such is the jealousy and acrimony of the leading American firm towards the British, that although it enjoys all the protection, facilities, and privileges of Her Majesty's subjects in this colony; yet nevertheless, senseless vituperation is openly indulged in with reference to all British institutions. It is about time that such unseemly conduct was either stopped or that retaliation in the form of public opinion should rebuke it.

Of one thing the public may be certain—namely, that British interests will be jeopardised should either steam or telegraphic communication in the East fall into the hands of the Americans. They are as aggressive as they are encroaching, and although we are advocates for progress, still we do not desire to see it practised to the prejudice of material British interests.

From the Weekly Alta California of 5th November.

The East India Telegraph Company.

We have received the prospectus of the Company bearing the above title, chartered by special act of the Legislature of the State of New York, with a capital of $1,000,000, with the privilege of increasing it to two millions—$200,000 of the stock being set apart to be disposed of in America, $100,000 in Europe, and $100,000 in China. This Company will proceed at once to the construction of a line of telegraph in the Chinese Empire, connecting the cities of Canton, Hongkong, Amoy, Foochow, Ningpo, Shanghai, Nankin and Pekin, and also intermediate places. This line forms a connecting link between that now being constructed under the grants obtained by P. McD. Collins, uniting the San Francisco Telegraph with Pekin via Behrings Straits, and the British line from Calcutta to Canton, and will complete the chain of telegraph from New York to the continent of Europe and Great Britain. The officers of the Company are as follows:—President James I. Day; Secretary, F. L. Johnson; Treasurer George Ellis; Presiding Director and Executive Officer in China, Augustine Heard, Jr.; Directors, James I. Day, Isaac Livermore, Thomas E. Stewart, Nicholas Mickles, Fletcher Westray, Wm. H. Fogg, Isaac M. Bull, Charles S. Westcott, F. L. Johnson; Resident Directors in China, Augustine Heard, Jr., (of the house of Augustine Heard & Co.) John F. Twombly, (of the house of H. Fogg & Co.) James Purdon, (of the house of Bull, Purdon & Co.)

F. W. MITCHELL,
Postmaster General.

Hongkong, 3rd January, 1865.

The existing practice of charging the letters of Officers serving on board Her Majesty's ships which may be posted unpaid or insufficiently paid with the deficient amount of postage only having been found exceptional and inconvenient, Her Majesty's Postmaster General has decided that in future when such letters are posted unpaid in the United Kingdom, or are received unpaid in a Ship's Bag from any Colonial Station, they will be chargeable on delivery with a fine of a single rate (6*d.*) in addition to the postage, and when they are posted insufficiently prepaid by means of postage stamps, they will be chargeable on delivery with a fine of six pence in addition to the deficient postage; and it is hereby notified for general information that such letters addressed to the United Kingdom which may reach this Office in the Ships' Bags will be treated correspondingly.

Letters from Naval Officers addressed to the United Kingdom are entitled to be forwarded at the reduced charge of 6*d.* the half ounce via Southampton and 10*d.* the half ounce via Marseilles only when the same are posted here in the Ship's letter bag, and when they are brought to this Office otherwise they are treated as ordinary letters from the Public and charged accordingly.

F. W. MITCHELL,
Postmaster General.

General Post Office, Hongkong, 27th December, 1864.

It is hereby notified for general information that as Her Majesty's Post Master Generals in London, has disapproved of the practice hitherto adopted by this Office of forwarding insufficiently paid Letters, addressed to the United Kingdom, and other places, which are posted after the regular hour for closing the letter Box for the Packet correspondence, without a late fee, or with a deficient amount of late fee, on the ground that such practice is objectionable and gives rise to complaints from the persons to whom the Letters are addressed; who consider their letters over-charged in consequence, this system will be discontinued, and henceforward correspondence posted for a particular mail will not be forwarded by that mail unless the proper fee is paid according to the notice issued on the subject, and failing such payment it will be detained for the next mail.

F. W. MITCHELL,
Postmaster General.

Hongkong, 13th December, 1864.

It is hereby notified for general information that commencing with the mails dispatched from the United Kingdom by way of Southampton on the 20th March, and by way of Marseilles on the 27th March next, which are due in Hongkong on the 8th May, the system of delivering letters from or through the United Kingdom, addressed to Shanghai, to the Agents of the persons to whom such letters are directed at this place, will be discontinued, and from and after the arrival of the before mentioned mails all such correspondence will be forwarded to Shanghai direct from this Department.

F. W. MITCHELL,

PENINSULAR & ORIENTAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

NOTICE OF REDUCTION OF PASSAGE MONEY.

IN the year 1857 the Directors made a considerable reduction in the Company's rates of Passage Money, which continued in force till 1861. In that year owing to the extraordinary rise in the Cost and Freight of Coals, and the enhanced price of all descriptions of Naval Stores, the Directors were reluctantly compelled to return to the rates of Passage Money previously in force. They are now happy to state that a decrease in the price of Coal and other expenses of Steam Navigation enables them to reduce the Company's Passage rates to the undernoted scale, which will take effect from and after the 1st June next, viz:—

From Hongkong to:—

Suez,	$460
Malta,	510
Marseilles,	530
Gibraltar,	530
Southampton,	550
Reserved Rates for Single Persons.
Suez,	$920
Malta,	1,020
Marseilles,	1,060
Gibraltar,	1,060
Southampton,	1,100
Reserved Rates for Married Couples.
Suez,	$1,160
Malta,	1,260
Gibraltar,	1,348
Marseilles,	1,348
Southampton,	1,388

The charges for Children are in proportion to the above.

The above rates are exclusive of the amount payable to the Egyptian Transit Administration for conveyance of Passengers through Egypt, viz:—

For First-class Passengers, $32

Children above three and under ten years, half-fare.

Madame Duret.

Opinions of the Press.

On Thursday evening, according to announcement, the celebrated drama of Jack Sheppard was played for the benefit of M'lle Marie Duret. We predicted last week that the talented beneficiary would be honored by a bumper—and this prediction was more than verified, for long before the opening of the doors, the Theatre was besieged by twice as many as it could by any possibility contain. On the opening of the doors, the rush to gain admittance was terrific. Some of the doors were partly forced off their hinges, and the wood on each side of the money-taker's head driven in some inches. Indeed this gentleman was for some time under reasonable apprehensions that his box would be forced from its mooring, and the money he had taken, like the goods of an auctioneer, be submitted to public competition. Fortunately the box stood its ground, but the audience, on getting their checks, rushed wildly right or left, as the pressure from without impelled them. The consequence was that "equal rights" was the order of the night. We have never seen the character of "Jack Sheppard" so truthfully portrayed. M'lle Duret as the hero, evinced all the reckless daring of the hardened and misguided original; her exertions were eminently successful, and were loudly applauded. The piece was repeated on Friday in consequence of the many hundreds of persons who had paid the admission for the previous night. Pedlar's Acre was played on Saturday night, to the great disappointment of hundreds who went in the expectation of seeing M'lle Duret repeat Jack Sheppard.—Sheffield Iris.

The charming young actress, M'lle Duret takes leave of us this evening. Her efforts during the past three weeks have been most successful. Her impersonations have been marked with rare ability and taste, evincing not only a close study and a correct conception of character, in whatever she undertakes; but the possession by her of all these qualities, both natural and acquired, calculated to make her a general and lasting favorite. She appears to-night for the 12th time, as "Jack Sheppard," in the favorite drama of that name. Her exertions in this arduous character, it is almost needless to state, have been most eminently successful, even beyond the hopes of her most sanguine admirers, and their name is legion. She certainly has no "equal" on the stage as Jack Sheppard.—Cork Review.

Last evening the thrilling domestic drama of Jack Sheppard was produced, under the immediate direction of M'lle Marie Duret, who sustained the the character of the hero of the piece. The Management deserve great praise for the material viz: Scenery, &c., &c., which they provided, and which vastly aided the fair lady in her exertions to gratify the public, and if the applause and enthusiasm of the audience may be taken as a criterion, they were indeed crowned with success. We have rarely, if ever, seen anything on the stage so beautiful as the grouping and tableaux; they were without an exception a perfect study for a painter. We cannot close our remarks without mentioning the "feature" of the evening. The Jack Sheppard of M'lle Duret was a living picture of this unfortunate and misguided boy, as drawn by the hand of that great artist, Mr. Harrison Ainsworth. The play is announced for repetition until further notice, and we have no doubt it will enjoy a long and successful run.—Manchester Guardian.

Jack Sheppard is at last withdrawn after a most successful run of 40 nights in consequence of the termination of M'll Marie Duret's engagement which must have made the always well filled coffers of the Theatre overflow, the lady too must have carried off some considerable booty as well as fame. The faithful portrayal of the hero Jack will forever be retained in the memories of the thousand who have witnessed and testified their approbation of her great performance of that arduous character. We wish M'lle Duret success where she is going and assure our Dublin friends there is a rich treat in store for them.—Manchester Times.

The most brilliant engagement ever played in our city is just terminated. It has really been quite wonderful to see the Abbey Street Theatre literally jammed night after night for the space of thirty nights to witness only one piece during the whole of that period—viz. Jack Sheppard. The success and long run of this piece is not at all to be wondered it with that immense favorite of the Dublin public M'lle Marie Duret as the hero. She has added much to her already well established reputation by her inimitable personation of Jack Sheppard. Her acting of the part was nature itself—while her costume with graceful ease was exquisite.—Dublin Journal.

M'lle Marie Duret appears again to night for the last time as Jack Sheppard. This is the 18th night of its representation during the present engagement of M'lle Duret, which is quite astonishing after the long run thirty nights which this piece had not more than four months ago.—We have criticised the performance of the Lady before and can only now say, it is one of the most judicious and varied pieces of acting we have ever had the pleasure of witnessing full of fun frolic and humor in the early scenes, and abounding throughout the latter portions of the play, with that deep pathos and reckless daring which so marked the career of the desperate original.—Dublin Evening Post.

For the past three nights M'lle Marie Duret has been delighting the frequenters of the Adelphi Theatre by her performance of the renowned Jack Sheppard. She throws her whole soul into the part and fairly enraptures her audiences. We have never seen a more perfect prototype of the little blackguard than she is at the commencement nor have we ever seen a more perfect picture of the gentleman of the road of that period than she is afterwards. All who have beheld her performance in their admiration forget that it is a lady who is personating the hero, but imagine for the time that it is Jack himself they are witnessing.—Glasgow Evening Paper.

M'lle Marie Duret to-night at the Queen's Theatre in her famous character of Jack Sheppard. She has performed this part throughout our principal Towns, as well as Ireland and Scotland—and all who have ever seen her pronounce her to be the only Jack Sheppard on the stage.—Hull Advertiser.

At the Ampitheatre during the past week we have had M'lle Marie Duret in her unrivalled part of Jack Sheppard. The piece as represented by her afford a good moral, and should be seen by all.—Liverpool Correspondent London Era.

Naval Architecture.

About an Iron Merchantman.

Yes, the world does move—so said Galileo, and so say we; and it still goes marching on. The knowledge of the fact is calculated to make a thinking man feel insignificant. Our fathers were wise in their day, surely they would be all "at sea" in this of ours. He, once upon a time, was a brave mariner who "went down into the sea" and out of sight of land; but now he is no sailor who essays to "hug the shore," except in cases of extreme necessity—ex necessatati ai. To be sure history tells how the Northmen paddled across the sea and whipped the Gauls and Britons, and how the Irish of those days made raids in wicker ships across the ocean wild to Britain, and even unto the neatherest point of that then unknown land, America—and how the Caledonians, on barques equally primitive, fought battles with their adversaries—and how?—but shaw! Admiral Nelson and his fleet would be laughed to scorn, and sent to—kingdom come—by one broadside from a first rate-man-of-war of this day. Trafalgar would now be only a skirmish, the battle of the Nile merely nothing, and—

But this by way of preface.

There now lies at Vallajo-street wharf a specimen of navel architecture, the like of which has never been seen before in the port of San Francisco, or at any place in the South Pacific. She is a British iron clipper-ship called the Viscata (Good Fortune), of 1065 25 100 tons British measurement, or about 1280 American—there being a difference in the tonage measurement of the two nations. Only think of a ship of nearly thirteen hundred tons burthen—and of iron! Why, bless us, a while ago—a short while ago—so great a curiosity would create an excitement so great that the police would needs be called into requisition to keep away the doubting crowd. But now she lies almost unnoticed at an antipodean wharf.

We boarded her yesterday with the assistance of Mr. Willian McCann, of the well known shipping firm of MaCann, & Co., of this city, and our called her captain, John Drummond, in his own cabin. He surrendered at discretion, and showed his papers, from which, as well as by personal inspection we learned these facts.

The Viscata was built in Liverpool by Hart and Sinnott who devote themselves exclusively to the building of iron ships, and is owned by Joseph Steel, a wealthy Liverpool merchant, and a chief man among the Association of Underwriters. The Viscata is 204 feet in length, her breadth is 32 feet 8 inches, and depth of hold 21 feet 6 inches. In design, material and workmanship, she is in every respect first class. She has two bulkheads, divided by an iron partition nearly two inches in thickness, and her bottom is covered with Portland cement, which, after a brief subjection to water, becomes hard as adamant. She has four pumps, each of two feet and seven inches stroke, and in addition a patent engine, by which the whole vessel can be flooded in a very short time. Besides these she has four boats, ready for launching in case of emergency, viz: a long-boat, a pinnace and a gig, which can easily accommodate eighty persons.

And again, iron having tendency (as many disasters prove) to reduce the needle from its true point and indicate a road that may lead to ruin, the ship has a supply of no less than six compasses. Four of these are in place, two being held in reserve. One binnacle, or steering compass, is in the usual place aft—one is upon a wooden pole, twenty feet in height, between the main and mizen masts, one in front of the poop, and one hung from skylight above and into the cabin, whose its indication can be plainly observed by the master.

But not only is the vessel's hull of iron, but so also are her lower masts, while her lower yards are of steel, and her standing-rigging of galvanized iron wire. Her between decks are eight feet in height, and is admirably and uniquely arranged with a view to light and ventilation. The cabin can comfortably accommodate eighty (first-class) passengers, and the apartments therein are gorgeously fitted up; the wood is of beautiful teak and birds-eye maple.

This is the first voyage of the Viscata. Before leaving Liverpool, she was thoroughly inspected by the Underwriters' Society under the special inspection of an agent of which she was built, and was rated as A A I iron vessel" fit to carry dry and perishable cargo;" and warranted for twenty years, with the usual subjection of a three years inspection, if within the limits of the United Kingdom.

She sailed from Liverpool on the 12th of last May and arrived at this port on the 12th of October, with a cargo chiefly composed of iron. Her trip was a very stormy one, especially off Cape Horn. She will sail on or before the 15th of this month for HongKong, and will from thence proceed wherever Capt. Drummond shall see proper—wherever in a word inducements shall best offer.

The Viscata is, we expect, the best merchantman that has ever entered the port of San Francisco. Visitors to her will be received welcomely by Capt. Drummond, a hospitable Scotchman, and by Mr. McCann, the gentlemanly head of the house to which she come here consigned.

[The "Viscata" now in this harbour Ed. D. P.]

The Care of the Eyes.

Never use a desk or table with your face toward a window. In such case the rays of light coming directly upon the pupil of the eyes, and causing an unnatural and forced contraction thereof soon permanently injures the sight. When your table or desk is near a window sit, so that your face turns from not towards it, while you are writing. If your face is towards the window, the oblique rays strikes the eye and injure in nearly as much as the direct rays when you sit in front of the window. It is always best to sit or stand while reading or writing with the window behind you and next to that, with the light coming over the left side—than the light illumes the paper or book, and does not shine abruptly upon the eye-ball. The same remarks are applicable to artificial light. We are often asked which is the best light—gas, candles, oil, or camphene. Our answer is, it immaterial which provided the light of either be strong enough and does not flicker.—Scientific American.

Deepest Coal Mine in the World.

The coal mine of Monkwearmouth was visited by a party of members of the British Association among whom were four ladies. The depth of this mine from the surface is 1,800 feet, and the workings of coal underneath extend to a distance of two miles from the shaft. About 300 persons are employed in it, and 600 tons are mined daily. The heat at the bottom varies from 84 deg. to 90 deg. Fah., and the miners work in an almost nude state. Of all the pursuits by which men gain a living, there is none more toilsome, more dangerous or more dreadful, in all its circumstances and surroundings, than the life of him who wins coal from the mines.

Scientific Gossip.

In this day of mechanical contrivance there are many terms in use which are not understood except among well-informed mechanics and engineers. Thus the strains which produce ruptures are five: tensile compressive transverse shearing and torsional. The tensile strain is that produced by a force tending to pull the particles of a body from each other; the compressive brings them together; a transverse strain acts at right angles to the body, such as occurs in bridges and joists; a shearing strain is that occasioned by cutting across; and torsion when there is a twisting in shafts, such as railroad axles are liable to.

Electro-magnetic engines have not yet succeeded in performing work economically. The consumption of a grain of zinc is more costly than a grain of coal, but only produces about one-eighth of the same mechanical effect.

The consumption of fuel in the best steam engines has been reduced to two pounds per horse power per hour, and greater economy is expected to be yet obtained.

The term "fishing," applied to railway construction, is derived from the French word afficher and from the similarity of the operation to that of fishing a mast or spar.

A monument of granite is to be erected to the memory of Sir Humphey Davy at Penzance, a well deserved tribute to a great chemist and practical savan.

It is computed that the nicotine produced by one year's growth of tobacco of the whole world would destroy every living creature on the face of the globe if its proportion were administered in a single dose.

The wheel base of a locomotive engine, as now generally adopted in England on the new engines is 15 feet. Some express engines have 18 feet.

Lighthouse illumination produced by a magnetic electric apparatus has been in successful operation at the South Foreland and Dungeness beacon for two years. Currents of air produced by the rotation of masses of iron in the neighborhood of powerful permanent magnets generates the currents of electricity which ignites pieces of carbon intensely, thus producing the light.

It is a curious and unsuspected fact that solar light is defective as to the showing of colors. These shown by the spectrum in the sodium flame are invisible in daylight. This is a providential defect, for otherwise we should be confounded by a perpetual display of colors in the air.

What is fog? Professor Tyndall says it is a cloud resting upon the earth; and he defines also a cumulus as the visible capital of an invisible column."
